A CHANCE TO LEARN COOKING

a sample of the many good things that will be prepared.

The subjects chosen for the course will be sufficiently numerous to give pleasing variety and yet will be so arranged that each of them will be distinctive and easily learned. Mrs. Wilcock talks about so many things that every housekeeper will be sure to get instruction, suggestions, real help and new recipes on her special "hobby" before the week is over. In addition to the regular cooking programs, Mrs. Wilcock, by special request, will assume the role of housekeeper, and prepare a five-course for four people at the total cost of forty cents. Just think of it! Only ten cents per person. She does not do this by cutting out any necessary food, but by her knowledge of how to buy and how to cook.

Mrs. Wilcock is a graduate of Genevieve Lemcke's New York Cooking School and has won a reputation for her fancy cooking, both American and foreign, in addition to her fame as a practical housekeeper. Her aim in this course is to tell how to take the drudgery out of the housework and the cooking of three meals a day.

Now, in conclusion, let us urge every woman in Ardmore to be on hand at 2:15 o'clock sharp next Monday afternoon and hear the first of Mrs. Wilcock's talks; your interest will bring you the balance of the week. Bring note books and pencils so that every recipe can be taken down; and bring dishes and spoons for sampling. The cooking school is under the auspices of the Daily Ardmoreite, and everything in connection is absolutely FREE. Come all next week as a guest of the Daily Ardmoreite.

The Very Latest Styles

It's an old, old saying that the people you write to often judge you by your stationery. And there is a great deal of truth in the fact that stationery can be so chosen as to reflect the best of judgment and taste.

Stationery suitable for one occasion may be entirely out of place for another. Then, too, the styles in stationery change the same as styles in clothing.

To be sure that your stationery is right for all purposes, always buy it here.
